

LYMAN BRISTOL.

[To accompany bill H. R. No. 211.]

MARCH 5, 1840.

Mr. S. W. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the petition of Lyman Bristol, report :

That the petitioner alleges he enlisted on the 17th June, 1814, as private in Captain Jared Ingersoll's company, 9th regiment of United States infantry, during the war; was in the fight and sortie from Fort Erie; and when in winter-quarters, at Sackett's Harbor, in the month of January, 1815, while in the forest procuring wood, in line of his duty, received a bad hurt in the testes, occasioned by falling with a heavy stick on him, which he was endeavoring to carry to the sled; suffered severely for several weeks; after which he was able to perform a part of his duty, though in great pain; was honorably discharged, May 17, 1815, at Sackett's Harbor. Thirty-seven individuals certify to their belief in the truth of the foregoing statements.

Captain Jared Ingersoll states that Bristol was under his command; that he retired from the service in November, 1814, and therefore knows nothing about the injury alleged to have been sustained by claimant.

Benjamin Hewitt enlisted at the same time as petitioner, and served with him, although he did not actually see the accident, yet he knows that claimant was seriously injured at the time stated; his credibility is certified by a justice of the peace. Ephraim Brown also swears to the same effect.

Dr. Luke Dewey, whose respectability is established, certifies to the existence and extent of the injury—total inability to labor. Dr. Foot agrees in same statement.

The committee report a bill.

Blair & Rives, printers.

JYMAN BRISTOL

[To accompany bill H. R. No. 311]

MARCH 5, 1840.

Mr. S. W. MORRIS, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, made the following

REPORT:

The Committee on Invalid Pensions to whom was referred the petition of Jyman Bristol, report:

That the petitioner alleges he enlisted on the 17th June, 1814, as private in Captain Jared Ingersoll's company, 9th regiment of United States infantry, during the war; was in the fight and some from Fort Erie; and when in winter-quarters, at Sackett's Harbor, in the month of January, 1815, while in the forest procuring wood, in line of his duty, received a bad hurt in the testes, occasioned by falling with a heavy stick on him, which he was endeavoring to carry to the sled; suffered severely for several weeks; after which he was able to perform a part of his duty, though in great pain; was honorably discharged, May 17, 1815, at Sackett's Harbor. Thirty-seven individuals certify to their belief in the truth of the foregoing statements.

Captain Jared Ingersoll states that Bristol was under his command; that he retired from the service in November, 1814, and therefore knows nothing about the injury alleged to have been sustained by claimant.

Benjamin Hewitt enlisted at the same time as petitioner, and served with him, although he did not actually see the accident; yet he knows that claimant was seriously injured at the time stated; his credibility is confirmed by a justice of the peace. Ephraim Brown also swears to the same effect.

Dr. Luke Dewey, whose respectability is established, certifies to the existence and extent of the injury—total inability to labor. Dr. Foot agrees in same statement.

The committee report a bill.

Barn & River printers.